STATE NEWS.

Aroostook

The Aroostook Valley Sunrise came out with a new and more elaborate head last week. It is a good local paper.

The Sunrise says that on Wednesday last Mr. J. B. Nichols, of Easton, was thrown from his wagon and somewhat bruised, caused by his horse getting frightened and running away. After throwing Mr. N. out, the animal ran a few rods over a plowed piece of land, when she fell and broke her neck, causing instant death.

Cumberland

The Argus says that last August a man giving his name as Edwin Brown, was arrested in Portland, charged with stealing Mr. John Bradley's horse in Cape Elizabeth. He has been in jail since awaiting trial. City Marshal Bridges has been investigating the matter and finds that the man's real name is Edward Payson Bond, and that he is a notorious horse thief.

A young man who had a peanut stand at the corner of Exchange and Middle streets, Portland, for several years past, has realized a profit of over $1000 a year, and with the amount saved from his earnings he has retired from the peanut trade, purchased a store in Boston and is doing a greater business.

Mrs. George W. Pollock of Deering, was seriously injured a few days ago by a fall upon the doorstep. No bones were broken, but her left arm was paralyzed and she was badly bruised.

Last Thursday a teacher in a Saccarappa school had her left arm broken by a scholar that resisted the punishment that she was giving him.

Kennebec.

The Journal says that Earnest O. Taylor, of China, was very severely injured by being kicked by a horse.

The annual session of the trustees of the Maine Insane Hospital, was held at the Hospital building last week, all the members of the Board being present. The reports show the Hospital to be in admirable condition in all its departments.

Knox

E. Perry's dye house at North End, Rockland, and S. Baker's dye house on Union street, were broken into Saturday night. Perry's loss is considerable. Baker had taken the clothing to his finishing room on Main street, and lost nothing.

Piscataquis

GUILFORD.—H. Douglass & Co. have shipped thirty cars of shingles from this station this fall. They say shingles find a ready sale, but at low figures.——Hiram Crockett, Esq., of Guilford, slaughtered a hog 18 months old, that weighed 603 lbs., on Thursday. The lumber mills are all in readiness for a winter business, waiting for more snow before they can start. Prospect is good for a large stock.

York.

The session of the Maine Teachers' Association, which began at Saco, Friday, closed Saturday noon. It was well attended. G. A. Robertson of Augusta, presided. Papers were read by Dr. J. H. Hanson of Waterville, on "Study of Arithmetic;" by the same on "Language in Mathematical Teaching," by Prof. Wilson of Hallowell, on "Algebra." Messrs. Harris, King, Keyser, Straw and Melcher took part in the discussions, which were of much interest to all engaged in the educational work.

If the weather continues favorable, work will be resumed quite generally in the York mills, Saco, this week. This is good news to the operatives, who expected to be out of work for a much longer time.

NEW MAGAZINES.

SCRIBNER, for January, begins and ends with a Christmas poem. Mr. Boyesen's opening ballad, Jarl Sigurd's Christmas Eve, is the means of re-introducing in the magazine the pencil of Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, who has made a large illustration for this poem and is hereafter to contribute frequently. Another phase of the holiday feeling is given in Irwin Russell's Christmas Night in the Quarters, which reproduces an old-time scene in the South, and contains three separate dialect poems, with illustrations by Hopkins. Fox-hunting in New England may fairly be called a Christmas topic, and Mr. Rowland E. Robinson discusses it with enthusiasm in an illustrated paper of fourteen pages. An anonymous paper on Dr. Schliemann at Mycenæ, reviews in a judicial vein the famous discoveries of that explorer, many of the objects, including some of the finest, being shown in the engravings. John Burroughs returns to his favorite topic in Birds and Birds, for which Miss Bridges, who is so well known by her bird-pictures, has made several drawings. Dr. Holland contributes a short poem entitled A Glimpse of Youth, and Stedman another on The Last Token, suggested by Max's picture of the same name, which is here engraved. There are also poems by H. H., Sidney Lanier, Paul H. Hayne, Mary E. Bradley, and others. The story of the number, by the elusive Saxe Holm, relates to the Civil War and is called Joe Hale's Red Stockings. Many readers will turn at once to a paper of new anecdotes of Pidgin English, by A. A. Hayes, Jr., and to H. H.'s sketch of the marvelous enterprise of American Frontier Cities, entitled A New Anvil Chorus. What the Presidents have thought in regard to appointments is summarized in J. M. Dorman's Century of Civil Service. The Growth of Cities in the United States is treated by B. C. Magie, Jr., who has a word of warning for the South. The serials by Miss Trafton and Edward Eggleston are continued, the latter with a picture of Twonnet and Roxy telling fortunes, by Walter Shirlaw. In his department, Dr. Holland discusses West Point and the Educational Charities, Books and Reading, Fitting for College, and Work for the Machine. The Old Cabinet has something about Gossip and the U. S. Census, Law Points in Novels, Reasons for not Voting for a Reform Candidate, A Young Cambridge Student, Middle Age, etc. Home and Society contains suggestions about Private Theatricals, etc. Culture and Progress has a dozen book notices, and World's Work records a variety of industrial improvements. Bric-a-Brac is given over to Irwin Russell's poem mentioned above.

ST. NICHOLAS, for January, like the issue for December,—of which 100,000 copies were printed,—shows at the first glance that it is in a special sense a Christmas Holiday Number, in fact it is neither more nor less than condensed essence of holiday,—cheery, and full of interesting stories and bright pictures. The frontispiece alone, Two Ways of Carrying the Mail, at once suggests sleds toboggans, moonlight sleigh-rides, and all manner of winter frolics. The number begins with the first half of a lovely illustrated story of the Middle Ages, The Ravens and the Angels by the author of Chronicles of the Schonberg-Cotta Family. Farther on is George McDonald's promised Letter to Young Americans full-charged with the charms of his winning style and practical wisdom, and near the end is a fresh and breezy little song, Skating, by the late Theodore Winthrop, never before printed. ST. NICHOLAS, himself, on paying his first visit in the opening year, presents with a cordial greeting a pretty New Years card, drawn by Miss L. Greenaway of London. Full of novelty and vivacity are the ample installments of the serials, Under the Lilacs, by Miss Alcott, and Tower-Mountain, by Gustavus Frankenstein, with capital pictures by Mary Hallock Foote and J. E. Kelley. There is a quaint tale of tiles, The King and the Three Travelers, by Arlo Bates, with a striking picture by John Lafarge; the other complete short stories, humorous, fanciful, pathetic, exciting, and all illustrated, are entitled, The Coolest Man in Russia, Debby's Christmas, How the Pony was Taken, Annie and the Bulls, and How Kitty got her New Hat. Then there is a rhymed funny account of the mishaps of Merry Mike on a windy day, with eight telling pictures, Tommy's Dream, or, The Geography Demon by Laura E. Richards; some verses descriptive of Music on All-Fours, of Josephine Pollard, with a comical illustration by Sol Eytinge, and a poem on Winter Fire-Flies. Among the more markedly instructive articles are An Agreeable Guest, in which one learns how to behave when visiting, The Stork and the Crane, an illustrated humorous fable by Howard Pyle, The Arms of Great Britain, a history of the Coat-of-Arms of the Old Country, by Susan Archer Weiss, with a picture, Something in the Old Clothes Line, a short talk about ancient costumes, with a portrait of a lady who looked like a cat, and How to make an Ice-Boat, with diagrams and full directions, by J. H. Hubbard. The little folks are provided with easy reading and a fine picture about Three Smart Little Foxes, and a page full of funny illustrations of the Japanese House that Jack Built. The whole number is full of mirthful fancies, suggestions, wisdom, good-will, fine art, and wholesome and strengthening literature.

ARE ADVERTISEMENTS READ?

Hon. John Forsyth, the veteran editor of the Mobile Register, used to tell a story to illustrate the value of newspaper advertising, as a means of getting before the public whenever you wished them to know of your wants or wares.

Mr. Forsyth was accidentally drawn into discussion of this subject with a mercantile friend, who expressed emphatic doubts whether advertising benefited a man's business at all, and closed his side of the debate with the common remark, "It's all money given to the all of newspapers. Nobody reads my advertisements or thinks of it, or looks after it, except your foreman and collector."

Forsyth replied, "Let us test the truth of your assertion. Sit down and write out such an advertisement as I dictate, and we will put it in the smallest type the case contains, and insert it in the remotest corner of the Register you can select."

The next morning there appeared in agate, without a bit of display, and in the most out-of-the-way place in the paper the following advertisement:

"Wanted: To buy a dog. Apply at No. —Blank street."

The contract was that in case the "ad" was a "success" the merchant was to pay $5, and to treat to wine and oysters. If it failed to meet the eyes of the parties with merchantable canines, the editor was to pay the merchant $6, and set up a supper for two.

During the day of the first appearance of his experiment the merchant called at the Register office several times. He looked as though he was in trouble, appeared nervous, looked over his shoulder like one who is pursued by some terrible bore, or a persistent dun.

Finally, late in the evening he met his editorial friend, and before the latter had time to open his mouth, the merchant said, hurriedly, "For Heaven's sake, leave that advertisement out of your evening edition. There's the $5 for it and $5 more to pay you for saying that No. —Blank street has bought a dog. Let's go and get the oysters; I'm nearly worried to death."

The poor man had recklessly made himself and family the victims of a terrible persecution. Before the carriers had gone their rounds with the Register, customers of all sorts, with every imaginable breed, size and color of animal sausage dangling at the heels of the owner and would-be vender, swarmed in the vicinity of No. — Blank street. They rang the street door a thousand times in two hours. They waylaid every member of the family, servant, nor proprietor nor child of the household dared appear on the street until officers were sent for, and the persecution stopped by the threats to lock up the swarms of urchins, dogs and all.

The merchant enlarged his advertisement, and thereafter attended to it as any other branch of his business. He had learned that people do, somehow, find out the contents of a newspaper advertisement.

WOMEN ON BROADWAY.

Looking out from Union Square, as this oasis in the desert of buildings is called, we get an idea of how interminable is Broadway crowd is.

About a quarter of a mile farther north Madison Square relieves the confinement of the street with fountains, grass, shrubs, and trees, and between the two such a parade may be seen on fine afternoons, especially Saturdays, as no other city in America, and few other cities in the world, can show. The great retail houses of the Stewarts, the Tiffanys, the Arnolds and Constables, and the Lords and Taylors, are concentrated within these limits or in the immediate neighborhood, and woman in her most elegant attire appears in quest of new additions to her already voluminous apparel.

Woman out of the house is always magnificent, and she is never so elaborate in her toilet as when, with the plea of nakedness on her lips, she sallies out on a shopping expedition. On such occasions she surrounds herself with an atmosphere—or we had better say influence—through which she looms in proportions not altogether her own; a spirit of imperativeness and supremacy invests her, and the men among whom she mingles drop into a sort of nebulous inferiority. A masculine spectator is quite apt to overlook the presence of men; the men are there inevitably, but they wriggle helplessly and insignificantly in the feminine sea of furbelows.

So much in the way of generalization, and now to be more specific. It's the writer's unbiased opinion, well certified by the comments of others, that more pretty faces and exquisite costumes are to be discovered between Twenty-third Street and Union Square on a fine afternoon than a month's investigation will reveal in any other city. This is not to be interpreted as praise of any particular type of American beauty. All types are aggregated in that fluttering stream of feathers and petticoats. The looker-on passes through a confliction of aesthetics in the contemplation of all the varieties. Constancy becomes an impossibility when all that is dark and sensuously melting in woman flits by in a compact brunette, to be succeeded by all that is fair and heavenly in a spirituelle blonde—when Perfection seduces us one moment in the petite, and the next moment embodies herself in a voluptuous amplitude of rosy flesh.

Though all the women we see are not pretty, an entrancing proportion are, and a still larger proportion are attired with a discriminating liberality of taste which employs vivid color without a suggestion of gaudiness. Another characteristic is the vivacity of manner, and the abundant use of flowers, both natural and artificial, as a decoration. In the time of violets and roses the air of this overheated city street is as fragrant as a garden. Nearly every woman wears a bouquet in her breast, and a legion of sidewalk peddlers add to the sweetness with small bunches held out for sale in baskets and on trays.

Most of the commodities visible are those which women buy. The dry goods stores preponderate, and after these are the glove stores, where plaster arms display the monstrous absurdity of twenty-two-button kids, the stationers', where the last fashions in note-papers and cards are revealed, the fancy stores, whose windows are filled with miracles of tortoise shell and ivory carving and expensive ornaments for the house and the person, the photographers where pictures are sold of the last idol of the hour, and the confectioners, whose sweetmeats are put up in the daintiest and most extravagant packages. Even the hawkers seem to understand the sex from which they are to expect patronage, and adapt their wares accordingly. An effectual appeal is made to women's softness by the sleepy Saltz pups which are temptingly held out in the palms of a huckster's hands, where they resemble balls of wool, and a stronger appeal yet is made by the one-armed soldier whose barrel-organ has a hard time in making itself heard above the noise of the vehicles. Other vendors offer pressed ferns, toys, plants, and photograph-holders. It may be imagined from the presence of the sidewalk merchant that the crowd is not par excellence fashionable, and it is not, but it is prosperous, gay and animated.

When the business of her brief hour is partly over or finished, the outer woman having been provided for, the inner woman is freshed after her own fashion and in her own haunts. No man with a grain of proper feeling can be at ease in Purcell's during the women's shopping hours. The singularity and uncommonly ample is not to see a room full of women eating, no matter how dainty the food may be. At Maillard's a mild infusion of the male element makes the sight more endurable, and there we may learn what a stickler for the minor elegances of life my lady is. The plate, the linen, the crystal-ware, are all flawless. The meals or satin paper in gold and delicate tints wrought into suggestions of cherubs and paradise.—WILLIAM H. RIDEING, in Harper's Magazine for January.

FARRAGUT AT TEN YEARS OF AGE.—Admiral Farragut and family were spending the summer at the Branch, and while sitting on the portico of the hotel he said: "Would you like to know how I was enabled to serve my country? It was all owing to a resolution that I formed when I was ten years of age. My father was sent to New Orleans, with the navy, to look after the treason of Burr. I accompanied him as cabin boy. I had some qualities that I thought made a man of me. I could swear like an old salt, could drink a stiff glass of grog as if I had doubled Cape Horn, and could smoke like a locomotive. I was great at cards, and was fond of gambling in every shape. At the close of dinner one day, my father turned everybody out of the cabin, locked the door, and said to me, 'David, what do you mean to be?' 'I mean to follow the sea.' 'Follow the sea! Yes be a poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast, kicked and cuffed about the world, and die in some fever hospital in a foreign clime.' 'No,' I said, 'I'll tread the quarter-deck and command as you do.' 'No, David, no boy ever trod the quarter-deck with such principles as you have and such habits as you exhibit. You'll have to change your whole course of life if you ever become a man.' My father left me and went on deck. I was stunned by the rebuke and overwhelmed with mortification. 'A poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast, kicked and cuffed about the world, and to die in some fever hospital! That's my fate is it? I'll change my life and change it at once. I will never utter another oath, never drink another drop of intoxicating liquor, never gamble.' And as God is my witness I have kept these three vows to this hour. Shortly after I became a Christian. That act settled my moral destiny."—Scholars' Companion.

There are societies in Massachusetts that take the following pledge:

"We, the undersigned, pledge ourselves to do what we can for the prevention of cruelty to human beings and to dumb animals. We also pledge our honor that we will use no profane language, will show respect to the aged, and will be respectful at all times." The motto of the legion is, "Reverence, truth, kindness, courage."

THE MODEST SOUTH

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

Mr Beck says the President is the first Republican who has given the South a chance and it would be the height of folly for any Southern Senator to refuse to sustain him. The South has shown no [illegible] of capacity to absorb a chance but the trouble is that no amount of absorption makes any change in the absorber. Every thing that is within reach is swallowed [illegible] if there are any signs of a disposition to move a few things out of reach the cry [illegible] O you haven't given us enough! If you don't give us more we [illegible] to empty the Treasury and vote against the President every time. It looks to the impartial observer very much [illegible] as though the South [illegible] could not [illegible].

THE CABINET

[illegible] Washington special asserts that Schurz and not Evarts is responsible for precipitating the contest which [illegible] between the [illegible] Administration and [illegible] that Evarts and Devens are anxious to bridge the chasm to [illegible] between the Administration and the party. The writer says:

[illegible] reason to believe that the Secretary of State and the Attorney General are [illegible] doing all they [illegible] to prevent [illegible] between Republicans and the Administration [illegible] necessity of a united front [illegible] the President into [illegible] the New York [illegible] appointments to the Senate [illegible] doubtedly [illegible] staggering blow which [illegible] the Administration [illegible] efforts of the Secretary of the Interior.

BUTLER AT HOME

[From the New York Times.]

Hamburg Massacre Butler who holds [illegible] the United States Senate by the grace of Messrs. Patterson and Conover [illegible] his constituents a piece [illegible] Butler has a grievance [illegible] personally [illegible] friends [illegible] endeavored [illegible] who was the legally elected Senator from South Carolina. He re finds [illegible] cowardly [illegible] himself [illegible] that he is now [illegible] repeat the [illegible] a good as they [illegible] to learn how [illegible] of brutality coward [illegible] blackguard [illegible] character [illegible] beneath the [illegible] Butler. The new Senator of course proposes to assist his State in getting [illegible] more deeply into the public Treasury and will equal frankness [illegible] talk about a new party in the South [illegible] control of the Government.

[illegible] says that it has been asserted that of the Senators [illegible] the New York nominations [illegible] Democrat Eaton [illegible] David Davis who call him [illegible] Republican [illegible] Senator [illegible] of Mississippi [illegible].

It is [illegible] certain that the Administration would have received [illegible] support [illegible] they would [illegible] Mr Dawes who voted for the confirmation [illegible] Mr Hoar [illegible] Mr Conkling [illegible] these Senators [illegible].

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. [illegible] writes concerning the Conkling-Gordon dispute:

Mr Gordon [illegible] the difficulty did not grow out of [illegible] attempt to fix up the nomination of [illegible] confirmation [illegible] Mr Conkling [illegible] the Vice President [illegible] Mr Conkling replied [illegible] at what the Senator said was untrue. He might have said in other words that he was not [illegible] the Vice President [illegible] Gordon's absolute tone provoked the direct retort. This was the beginning and [illegible] of the whole affair and was not [illegible] connected with the Wade nomination. [illegible] Mr Gordon or any other Senator had the slightest right to complain of Mr Conkling's expression [illegible] it was made [illegible] to Mr Gordon that such was the fact. He found therefore that [illegible] could not be sustained in a quarrel on that basis.

One of the six Republican Senators who voted for the New York nominations said to the correspondent of the Philadelphia North American: "The President must have foreseen disaster and it was hardly necessary or fair for him to drag his friends down with him. However we were determined to support him."

The Bangor Whig suppressed the despatch announcing that the Republicans had elected their candidate for Senator in Beaufort county, S C. A man can lie sometimes by keeping still as well as by speaking.—Boston Herald.

The Herald is [illegible] in the above paragraph comes under the latter head.

That was a notable gathering of eminent authors at the banquet given at the Brunswick hotel in Boston Monday evening by H O Houghton & Co., to the contributors of the Atlantic Monthly in honor of the 70th birthday of John G Whittier. At one table sat Whittier, Longfellow, Emerson and Holmes and among the brilliant array of Atlantic writers were also the editor, W D Howells, Charles Dudley Warner, Thos W Higginson, Mark Twain, E P Whipple, J T Trowbridge, R. H Stoddard and many others. The proceedings were of the most interesting character, the poetical tributes, speeches and letters of congratulation being fully imbued with the spirit of the occasion. The modest Quaker poet was with difficulty induced to attend, and he received the compliments and good wishes showered upon him with unassuming grace.

THE MEXICAN TROUBLE.

Our affairs with Mexico are seriously engaging the attention of Congress. Senator Blaine's note of warning sounded last summer in his Woodstock speech is now admitted on all hands to have been a wise one. The well informed Washington correspondent of the Providence Journal says:

The facts already arrived at by the Military Committee are held by many prominent members to show conclusively that but for the prompt attention given to the Mexican question by the House and the united movement of the Senate for Senator Conkling's resolution the Government would have drifted or been driven into war. The charge is made openly both by Democrats and Republicans in each House that Secretary Evarts' management of Mexican affairs has been such that but for the check which Congress has put upon matters he would have had war on hand at a very early day. For the first time since the present Administration came into power the representatives of the Mexican Government here feel relieved from the great anxiety they have feared lest war should be precipitated. The action charged upon Mr Evarts is persisting in not recognizing the representative of Diaz. In the face of this refusal the evidence shows that Diaz has exerted himself most actively to maintain peace with the United States, and that his conduct from the first has been such as should have secured [illegible] prompt and most hearty recognition. So far as this [illegible] has proceeded, the [illegible] have been convinced that the President and Secretary McCrary have been very earnest in their desires to keep [illegible] resolved now that no trouble shall come if they [illegible] avoid it. [illegible] same [illegible] positive [illegible] Secretary Evarts [illegible] Diaz [illegible] Mexican [illegible] refusal [illegible] to the failure [illegible] of Secretary Evarts to send to the House [illegible] report of General [illegible] Matamoras which shows conclusively that [illegible] cause of [illegible] troubles along the border have been [illegible] growing less [illegible] Mr Evarts in regard to [illegible] Conkling's friends [illegible] Mr Evarts will [illegible] his action in Mexican matters [illegible] result of prompt action on the part of Congress.

Robbery, Incendiarism Attempted Lynching and a Generally Disgraceful Affair—More Trouble Expected

ST LOUIS, Dec 18 A meagre account of a disastrous fire and robbery at Galesburg, Chariton county reached here a day or two ago, but not much was thought of it. Later advices, however, show it was serious A gang of negroes robbed the store of H C Gains Tuesday night and fired the building to hide the crime Six buildings were burned and a large amount of property destroyed, upon which there is no insurance After the fire was subdued four negroes, two men and two women were arrested for robbery and an attempt was made to lynch the prisoners but it was prevented and they were lodged in Keytesville jail Next day a great crowd of Galesburg people went to the jail for the purpose of hanging the prisoners but the Sheriff removed them to a place of safety Thursday they were brought back to Keytesville and another attempt was made to lynch them but it failed through the vigilance of the officers and citizens. Other arrests have been made and a large amount of stolen property recovered Among those last arrested was one Dougherty, who after being badly choked acknowledged he was one of the leaders of the gang and he was placed in the second story of the building under a strong guard but that night the mob assembled, broke down all barriers and were just on the point of seizing their victim when he jumped from the window and escaped, the crowd followed and as they ran past Dougherty's cabin his wife fired a shot gun into the crowd but did no harm. She was ordered to surrender but defied the whole crowd The City Marshal then attempted to arrest her but she wounded him in the shoulder, and several other officers had to beat a retreat Finally the cabin was fired and she with her four children were dragged from the burning house Dougherty has since been arrested, and there is great excitement, further trouble being apprehended.

General Pope's Despatches to General Sheridan

CHICAGO, Dec 17 The following telegram from Gen Pope is transmitted for the information of the General of the Army by General P H Sheridan Captain Blair telegraphs from El Paso on the 16th inst, that the mob have been up to El Paso Mexico, to get a small gun there, but Judge Padillo refused to let them have it Major Ofian has just come from the other side All his old friends turned the "cold shoulder" on him to day and one of them told him he had better come into town, which he will do to morrow Men belonging to the mob came up to Ysleta yesterday and took all the ammunition they could find If a good blow is to be struck, the sooner the better Col Hatch reports the Capt Blair has been telegraphed of the movement of troops now taking place and that he has been directed to take charge of two field pieces and the ammunition at El Paso and put them in the Custom House under guard of his detachment Col Hatch thinks the troops will arrive in time to prevent any serious trouble

Gen Pope also telegraphs under date of yesterday Ten companies of the 9th Cavalry and one company of Infantry are enroute to El Paso The advance companies are expected to arrive there to morrow The whole force probably numbers a little over 300 men Enough for all purposes

held a second meeting to-day and devoted some time to a discussion of the order and manner in which the investigation is to be conducted Statements in regard to the condition of affairs in Mexico in favor of the claims of Diaz for recognition, were heard from Gen Jno B Frisbie of California who recently made an extended visit to that country

The Loss of the Huron

The opening of the Naval Court of Inquiry into the Huron disaster has been promulgated by the Secretary of the Navy They give a synopsis of all the testimony taken in the course of the inquiry and refer to it frequently in their findings Their conclusions are that Commander Ryan is primarily responsible for the loss of that vessel and that Lieut. Palmer, the navigating officer made errors in navigation, also that the deck officers on the night of her loss might have been at fault in not ascertaining the accuracy of perpendicular soundings repeated to them from time to time

The ship is reported to have been in every respect well found, staunch and seaworthy, and she was in that condition up to the time that she struck They find that no one of the survivors from the wreck has any cause of complaint to make against any officer or men upon the vessel for want of hearty co-operation of loyal assistance in the midst of the perils that surrounded them, and find that every man was cool, ready willing and brave up to the last moment.

The Treaty of Paris—The Cabinet Divided.

MANCHESTER, Dec 18 The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian telegraphs It was the gossip of all political clubs Monday that the Cabinet is divided about the measures to be taken to prevent a one sided alteration of the treaty of Paris and that Lord Derby Foreign Minister, and the Marquis of Salisbury Secretary of State for India are opposed to the pretensions of Lord Beaconsfield to summon Parliament much earlier than usual It is exceedingly probable that Parliament will meet on the 17th of January to which time it was prorogued last week but the means by which Beaconsfield hopes to maintain British interests under the treaty of Paris will require further deliberation [Note—Parliament usually meets in February.]

GERMANY

Bismarck's Cabinet Reorganization

LONDON Dec. 18 With reference to the internal questions now dividing Prince Bismarck and Emperor William and some of the Ministers the Standard's Berlin despatch says

Prince Bismarck seems to have overcome the obstacles which had hitherto hindered the realization of his plan for remodelling the Cabinet Council of Ministers and that the Minister of Finance and Dr Achenbach, Minister of Commerce and Public Works will resign, that the latter will be replaced by Dr Friedenthal Minister of Agriculture, that Herr Bennigsen President of the Chamber of Deputies of Prussia will soon become Home Minister, and that the other portfolios will be distributed when Prince Bismarck returns to Berlin Such a solution of the crisis would be a success for the National Liberal party, who, up to the middle of last week despaired of a hopeful issue Apparently the conservatives declined at the last moment to enter the Cabinet previous to the removal of Dr Falk, Minister of public Instruction and Ecclesiastical affairs and unless they had guarantees that all Ecclesiastical laws and since the beginning of the Ecclesiastical war should be partly abolished and partly remodeled Bismarck is now working to remove some courtiers of high rank whom he charges with conspiracy against him According to the latest intelligence he, up to this time, has not been successful, but there are indications that these courtiers must this time yield to the Chancellor

REV. GEO. W. FIELD'S LECTURE. Last evening a large and intelligent audience assembled at the Art Rooms to hear Rev Geo. W. Field's lecture The business meeting announced to have taken place previous to the lecture was postponed until after Christmas. The subject of Dr. Field's lecture was "The Distasteful and Offensive in Roman Art," and it was handled in the lecturer's usual style, which never fails to interest any audience. He began by saying that he selected the above subject because it is easier to find the faults in a work of art than it is to find the real excellence, When one visits Rome, the eye is immediately attracted by the number of distasteful statues which surmount the buildings These statues look as if the artist had taken for his subject, some poor theatrical actor, at a moment when he had worked himself into a fury One can but complain of the endless repetition of the same subject in the old paintings You can count on the fingers almost, the number of subjects to which the church have confined their artists, and besides the monotony of the subjects the absurdity and extravagance of many of them are exceedingly distasteful The fearful martyrdoms as represented by some of the masters are also very offensive. The lecturer concluded by speaking of the soiled and dirty condition of many of the celebrated works of art. The lecture was very interesting but want of space forbids an extended notice

NOROMBEGA HALL

New Scenery and Other Improvements

Yesterday afternoon several of our young business men met the Directors of Norombega Hall and talked over the ... of the new scenery ... the stage The Directors have decided to cut off the galleries, extend the stage clear across the hall and clear away the rear and put in two front and convenient stage rooms An organization has been formed of some of our enterprising young men who are now in correspondence with a celebrated scenic artist of Boston for the purpose of securing his services to paint a new and beautiful set of scenery They propose to bring him to this city and have him paint a set of scenery that will be a credit to the city for years to come The changes will be made in the hall at once, and the scenery which will be in flats, thus doing away with the old style of raising and lowering will be ready by the first of February The organization propose to present a series of entertainments in order to pay for the scenery the first of which will take place about the middle of February when they will present the celebrated play of Our Boys This certainly deserves the thanks of our citizens for instituting this long needed change, and when they commence their series of entertainments the citizens of Bangor will undoubtedly show their appreciation of their move by giving them crowded houses at each and every one For several years past we have been unable to have but comparatively few entertainments of the highest order on account of the poor accommodations at the hall, but after these changes, are made and the stage put in perfect order we may expect entertainments of the highest character

HOLIDAY GIFTS

A Stroll among our Advertising Patrons—Where to find the Presents

Now that the holiday season draws near the people are beginning to look about to see what they can find for suitable presents for their relatives and friends. Our merchants have, in anticipation of the demands of the public, put in large stocks of seasonable goods, with which they have tastefully arranged their stores so that on entering, one is completely bewildered by the fine array of beautiful things, in order to render what a ... very important problem What shall we get? we propose to take our readers around with us on a stroll among our advertising patrons

The first thing being to please the children, we will first see what there is in the toy line

TOYS

On entering the Bangor Bazar on Main street, one is easily convinced that Mr Durgin knows what the children want but there is such an endless variety of toys that one is almost at a loss to know which end of the store to commence at Here are dolls of all descriptions, miniature play house furniture, and in fact, everything that is calculated to please the little ones

At Daniel White's store, on Kenduskeag Bridge, there is another vast collection of toys such as steamboats, engines, and horses and carriages, which when wound up afford great amusement for the boys and girls Then there are sleds in all varieties, from the fancy frame sled to the pointer, which is the boys' delight But in using these sleds the boys must be careful, and not endanger the limbs of foot passengers on the streets.

From here we will step into M. H Andrews' News Depot, on Kenduskeag Bridge, where we shall also find a large assortment of just such things as Santa Claus finds most acceptable for good boys and girls And beside the toys, Mr Andrews has lots of those little fancy articles, which are just the things for the holiday trade, Messrs. D. Bugbee & Co and E F & W. G Duren, also have a large stock of interesting games and toys for the little folks.

At T. D Chamberlain's store on State street is a full line of holiday goods, with a fine variety of toys, picture books and stationery. Every thing is well arranged for the convenience of customers, and all will receive a cordial welcome.

BOOKS.

After leaving the toy stores, the next thing to look after is the book, in which the young folks find so much delight. At Bugbee, & Co.'s, we find, a large, choice assortment of books, which have been selected with a view of interesting old, as well as young. All of the latest works of the day, and many beautifully illustrated and bound books, will be found on the shelves in this store. Here, also may be found a beautiful variety of albums, writing desks, Russian leather goods, Rogers' groups, Osgood's heliotypes, and a thousand of things that will be suitable for a Christmas gift

Next in order we come to Hight's where we find another choice assortment of holiday books. Illustrated standard, and juvenile books in plain and fancy bindings are to be found in profusion at this establishment, Here also is a large stock of albums of all sizes and prices, stereoscopes and views, writing desks, stationery, games and other articles too numerous to mention

At Andrews' News Depot we not only find all of the periodicals of the day, but also another fine variety of books which have not only been selected with a view to amuse but to improve the minds of the young In connection with a first class assortment of goods selected especially for the holidays, we also find a large circulating library, filled with works on most every subject from the light romance, to the more solid reading Mr Andrews is always glad to see his friends, and takes pleasure in showing them his goods

E F & W. G. Duren's store presents a very attractive appearance and the shelves are well filled with books Among their specialties will be found one of the largest and best assortments of Bibles in the city, ranging in size from the miniature pocket edition, to the magnificent morocco bound, gilt edged, and beautifully illustrated Bible They also have fine pictures ... which cannot fail to please the children and a large assortment of gold pens, plain and fancy stationery albums and games of all kinds

MUSIC

Having given a brief sketch of where the standard books are to be found we will next turn to music and step into ... Davenport's on Main street. Here we find Mr Davenport always attentive to the wants of his customers, and ready to remove the coverings from his pianos for inspection. His stock is ... fresh ... makes a specialty of the upright piano forte, and ... hard to surpass ... a fine assortment of organs ... and ... music ... bound

From here we walk on up Main street and enter Messrs Patten & Wheeler's store, where will be found another fine stock of all kinds of musical instruments and sheet music Here they make a specialty of the New England organ and the Miller piano ... by the number of instruments which they have sold ... we should say ... prepared to meet the demands of the public

WATCHES, JEWELRY AND FANCY GOODS

At Chas Hight's will be found one of the finest assortments of ladies and gents' gold ... watches, ... neck chains, vest chains, etc in the city ... also ... filigree work which is very neat and pretty. His display of rings ... looking at them ... they are not only very beautiful, but are ...

CATARRH

Of Ten Years' Duration. The Discharges Thick, Bloody, and of Foul Odor. Senses of Smell and Taste Wholly Gone. Entirely Cured by

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen—I feel compelled to acknowledge to you the great benefit SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE has been to me. For ten years I have been afflicted with this loathsome disease, and especially in the winter time has it been most severe. The discharge has been thick and bloody, emitting a foul odor so bad that my presence in a room with others was very offensive to them. One week after commencing the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE I was not troubled with it at all. My senses of taste and smell, which were wholly gone, have now fully returned, and my general health is much improved. Yours,

MELBOURNE H. FORD,
Short-Hand Writer.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 8, 1876.

LATER.

Gentlemen: The package of SANFORD'S CURE arrived here tonight all right. I don't know what I should have done if it had not been for this remedy. I have tried Nasal Douches and everything else, and although I have been able to stop the offensive discharge, I have not been able to recover my senses of taste and smell until I tried SANFORD'S CURE. You can refer any one you choose to me, and I will cheerfully inform them in detail as to the benefit the remedy has been to me.

Yours, MELBOURNE H. FORD.

LETTER CARRIERS.

All letters are delivered free by carriers when addressed to street and number. People should inform their correspondents of above and have their letters addressed accordingly.

Persons leaving their address at the General Delivery can also have their letters sent, but it is much more convenient to have the street and number on, and they will be delivered earlier than if the same is put on at the office. Carriers make two deliveries daily, the first trip supplying the extremes of their routes.

Collections are made morning and evening in season for important mails—the down town boxes fifteen and the up town boxes thirty minutes before closing mails at the office.

Holidays the Carrier's Window will be open for the delivery of letters from 8½ to 9½ A. M., and from 7½ to 8 P. M. Sundays from 8½ to 9½ A. M.

Any irregularities in the Carriers' department should be reported to the office.

ENVELOPES.

No additional charge will be made for printing the name and request to return, across the left hand upper corner of the envelopes furnished by the Post Office Department, (samples of which may be seen at the Cashier's window,) when ordered in lots of not less than 500.

A request for the return of a letter to the writer, if unclaimed within thirty days, or less, written or printed, with the writer's name, post office and State, across the left end of the envelope, on the face side, will be complied with.

The public are earnestly recommended to procure Stamped envelopes with printed return request, as the expense is less, and letters thus endorsed, if not delivered to the person addressed, are returned to the writer free of charge.

First class envelopes of above furnished at $32 50 per thousand.

Stamps cut from Stamped Envelopes cannot be used to prepay postage. The use of such Stamps is punishable by a fine of fifty dollars.

Stamped Envelopes, spoiled in directing, are redeemed at this office.

VEGETINE

Strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.

VEGETINE

Is not a vile, nauseous compound, which simply purges the bowels, but a safe, pleasant remedy, which is sure to purify the blood, and thereby restore the health.

VEGETINE

Is now prescribed, in cases of Scrofula and other diseases of the blood, by many of the best physicians, owing to its great success in curing all diseases of this nature.

VEGETINE

Does not deceive invalids into false hopes by purging and creating a fictitious appetite, but assists nature in clearing and purifying the whole system, leading the patient gradually to perfect health.

VEGETINE

Was looked upon as an experiment for some time by some of our best physicians, but those most incredulous in regard to its merit are now its most ardent friends and supporters.

VEGETINE,

Instead of being a puffed up medicine, has worked its way up to its present astonishing success by actual merit in curing all diseases of the blood, of whatever nature.

VEGETINE,

Says a Boston physician, "has no equal as a blood purifier. Hearing of its many wonderful cures, after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots and herbs, each of which is highly effective, and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce astonishing results."

VEGETINE

Is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 13, 1871.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. Vegetine was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefitted by its use. I procured the article, and, after using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.

Respectfully yours, U. L. PETTENGILL,
Firm of S. M. Pettengill & Co.,

I HAVE FOUND

THE RIGHT MEDICINE.

BOSTON, Mass.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—My only object in giving you this testimonial is to spread valuable information. Having been badly afflicted with Salt Rheum, and the whole surface of my skin being covered with pimples and eruptions, many of which caused me great pain and annoyance, and knowing it to be a blood disease, I took many of the advertised blood preparations, among which was any quantity of Sarsaparilla, without obtaining any benefit until I commenced taking the Vegetine, and before I had completed the first bottle I saw that I had got the right medicine. Consequently I followed on with it until I had taken seven bottles, when I was pronounced a well man, and my skin is smooth, and entirely free from pimples and eruptions. I have never enjoyed so good health before, and I attribute it all to the use of Vegetine. To benefit those afflicted with Rheumatism, I will make mention also of the Vegetine's wonderful power of curing me of this acute complaint, of which I have suffered so intensely.
